Red Door Gallery, Side Door Gallery collaborate on show

Red Door Gallery will be partnering with the smaller Side Door Gallery on Mill St. to show stage a joint show of Toronto artist Ale Groen.

Red Door Gallery will show immense landscapes of Northern Ontario, some reaching eight feet by four feet in size. The paintings, at once rich with an impasto technique, then scratched away with the opposite end of the brush, capture rugged nature and infuse it with raw emotion.

Side Door Gallery will show another series by the artist smaller, conceptual monochromatic works.

Living in time is always dynamic, Ale says of his work. My work explores different forms of identities, objects and landscapes. Each series questions the problem of knowing and what does a new knowing look like in real time and space. The ability the know something parallels our ability to create a form of our knowing. This is a great opportunity to see the breadth of an accomplished artist, and work selected and priced specially for these shows.

Ale studied Bachelor of Fine Art at York University and Masters of Fine Art (MFA)
