

United Way Halton Hills issues appeal for donations

As the United Way of Halton Hills winds down its 2016 Campaign, the agency is reaching out for a last minute appeal for donations.

The goal of $400,000 was set in the fall, and as of now, they have a large gap to close before reaching that mark.

With a campaign goal shortfall of $80,000, United Way Halton Hills will struggle to fund the agencies that rely on United Way funding at the same level.

Currently, it is funding 21 social service agencies, and 20 of those are requesting United Way funds for the 2017-2018 fiscal year.

We need more donations in order to maintain funds to so many worthwhile programs in our community, campaign chair Susan Ksiezopolski said. Residents and/or local businesses don't need to give us the money right now, just a pledge for this year.

We'll make it work.

We are hoping the community can rally behind our urgent need, she added. This is about ensuring help is there for the people in our community.

Programs such as Big Brothers, Big Sisters Mentoring, Community Living North Halton's Friday Friends, Links-2Care Community Support, Literacy North

Halton's Read, Spell, Write, ROCK's Youth Aiding Youth, St. John Ambulance's Therapy Dog Program are just a few of the many programs receiving funds from the local United Way.

Call the United Way office to donate or pledge at 905-877-3066 or visit the website at www.unitedwayofhaltonhills.ca

United Way Halton Hills will accept donations for the 2016 campaign until March 31.
