

Two complaints did not meet the criteria for investigation decision; and complaints that the municipality has failed to take a certain action that it is required to take under its rules, procedures or bylaws.

Upon receiving a complaint, ADR Chambers Ombuds Office first considers whether it has the jurisdiction to investigate the complaint, said Schnapp, adding there are some cases in which his office has no jurisdiction.

In cases where ADR Chambers Ombuds Office decides that it has the mandate to investigate, the complainant and the municipality are informed of the decision and the file is assigned to an investigator, he added.

Neither of the two cases reported to the ombudsman's office last year met that criteria and were therefore not investigated.

Over the next year we will continue to work hard to carry out our important responsibilities. We will also make sure both municipal officials and members of the public are aware of our office and call on us for assistance when required, wrote Schnapp in his report.
