COMMUNITY

Georgetown businesses invite you to fundraiser 'under the stars'

A gathering of Georgetown businesses invites you to raise money for Halton Hills youth centres under the stars.

On Aug. 12, community members are invited to watch the movie Trolls at the Gellert Center to support the local youth centres.

The initiative began last year, when local resident and Generations Physiotherapy Centre owner Ola Jiskra wanted to reach out and get the community involved.

Jiskra approached Alana Stroeder at Georgetown Chevrolet Buick and GMC, and after a productive lunch, they both agreed bringing the community together to support the youth centres was something they wanted to pursue.

"I love all of Georgetown, but I feel there's not a lot that happens in Georgetown south," Jiskra said.

In just a matter of weeks, the team secured Trafalgar Sports Park and the movie Star Wars: A Force Awakens. Over 500 people came, and they raised $5,000.

Following the event's success, Jiskra and the rest of the team tackled the project earlier this year, in

We're very well taken care of by our community members, and if we can turn this into a fundraiser to inspire people as a group to give back and have a fun night, and then the proceeds going to something like the youth centres, it's really important."

January, and added more businesses, including CCV Insurance & Financial and the SilSells team at Royal LePage Meadowtowne.

The movie this year takes place Aug. 12 at the Gellert Centre. The event begins at 6 p.m. with Centre Stage hosting a dance party, and a number of vendors will be there, including Hungry Hollow, Funnel Cloud and an ice cream truck. The movie will begin at sundown.

A local Scotiabank branch has also made a contribution, promising to match some of the fundraising efforts to potentially double the proceeds.

According to Jiskra, anybody and everybody is invited to partake in a night of fundraising fun.

"Community energy is really important," she said. "Truly, what inspires me is to give back whenever we possibly can, just to put smiles on people's faces. We're very well taken care of by our community members . and if we can turn this into a fundraiser to inspire people as a group to give back and have a fun night, and then the proceeds going to something like the youth centres, it's really important."

The badges, or admission tickets, are for sale at any of the aforementioned businesses. They are $5 each or $20 for 5, and the first 300 sold will get a 16-inch multicoloured LED foam baton. There are also corporate packages available.

Organizers invite you to bike to the event and log your kilometres for the Halton Hills Bike Challenge. The organizers also invite you to bring chairs and blankets so you are comfortable.
