Show will go on at Georgetown Little Theatre

Damage from a suspicious fire on Aug. 12 at the Georgetown Little Theatre Production's studio in Stewarttown wasn't as extensive as first feared and the group will begin its 57th season Aug. 25-26 without missing a beat.

The building on Stewarttown Road is being cleaned, repaired, and ventilated this week and is expected to be ready for the Georgetown Little Improv Club's performances next Friday and Saturday evening.

Show start times are at 8 p.m.

GLT president Virginia Bancour was thankful for the outpouring of support from other community theatre groups in Halton, along with others from as far away as Thorold and Woodstock and the Town of Halton Hills.

Halton Regional Police initially stated in a press release that damage to the interior of the building was extensive, but Bancour said this week that thankfully the damage was minimal, mainly caused by smoke.

It's believed that a break-and-enter to the building took place at around 10 p.m. on Aug. 12 and that the perpetrator(s) ignited a fire at the bottom of the stairs leading to the props and costumes rooms.

Andrea Gaynor, an investigator with the Ontario Fire Marshal, said that a heat detector alarm saved the building from more extensive damage because members of the Halton Hills Fire Department were able to respond quickly to extinguish the fire.

No suspects have been identified.

Anyone with information is asked to contact the HRPS One District Criminal Investigations Bureau at 905-878-5511 ext. 2416.

Tips can also be submitted to Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-8477 (TIPS), through the website www.halton-crimestoppers.ca, or by texting "Tip201" with a message to 274637 (CRIMES).

In April 1998, the Georgetown Little Theatre's rehearsal hall in Stewarttown was destroyed by fire and subsequently rebuilt in 2002.
