Downtown Georgetown is set to serve as the backdrop for a few scenes of a Bravo television series after film crews shut down part of Main Street briefly on Tuesday (Oct. 10).

According to a notice distributed to area residents and businesses last week, the series is called Imposters and is currently shooting episodes for its second season.

"We will be filming exterior and interior scenes in and around the VIA Train Station on Tuesday Oct. 10 from 6 a.m. to 1 p.m.," said the production company last week.

In the notice, Imposters is described as a dark comedy starring Inbar Lavi, "who plays Maddie, a persona-shifting con-artist who is as beautiful as she is dangerous, leaving her unwitting victims tormented when they realize they have been robbed of everything - including their hearts."

Based on set art displayed on Main Street prior to the shoot, it appears as though Georgetown will be subbing for the town of Pottsville, Pennsylvania for the scenes shot here.

Imposters also stars Rob Heaps and Parker Young, and according to the show's IMDB page aired its first season on Bravo starting in February of this year.

Crews have been in town for a few days preparing for the one-day shoot, which also required a partial closure of the GO/VIA Rail parking lot.
