

Artisan's Attic Gallery reopens after flood, renovation

Artisans' Attic Gallery and Gifts has recovered and reopened after suffering a disastrous flood from a faulty sprinkler.

The extreme water damage had caused its closure while the walls and floors were replaced. Now, the renovations are complete, their shop looks brand new and the artists are ready to celebrate with a new art show.

Painters Laura Kingsbury, Renee Fukumoto and Susan Little recently attended a 'plein air' art retreat together up in northern Ontario's La Cloche Charlton Lake region. This location is depicted in their new series of acrylic paintings they have created and will be showcased at their new show, 'Ladies Of The Lake'.

Also inspired by nature's northern vistas are artists Jane Altobelli, Karen Caisie, Susan Kerr, Mary Meredith, and Susan Pippy, who have created new works as well sculpture, papier-mâché, jewelry, felted and fibre arts, pottery and stained glass to reflect this majestic scenery.

The 'Ladies Of The Lake' art show opens Saturday, Nov. 18 at 10 a.m. with a 'Meet the Artists' reception 12-4 p.m. at Artisans' Attic Gallery and Gifts, 56 Main St.

Last month, Artisan's Attic Gallery re-opened its doors after suffering a flood. The water damage was enough to destroy the walls and floors. On Nov. 18, the artists are hosting a new show, 'Ladies of the Lake,' and have invited the community. ASK THE PROFESSIONAL

We work for you.

Q

My spouse and I have 2 young children. I am under 40 and healthy. Do I need a Will and Power of Attorney.

A

Simply if you and your spouse don't die or ever become incapable of acting for yourself then you don't need a Will or Power of Attorney. A Will and Power of Attorney is for protection of your family in the event of an incident in your life that kills you or renders you incompetent.

Without a will upon your death the Succession Law Reform Act determines who gets your estate not you. If family members argue over who gets your children then a judge determines what is best for your children without your input. If you become incompetent then the Public Guardian determines where you will live, and what will be done with your assets rather than a trusted person you have chosen to make your decisions.

Yes you should have a Will and Power of Attorney. We have nine lawyers capable of giving you advice on Wills and Powers of Attorney.
