COMMUNITY

Egg Nog Jog Sunday

The 35th-annual Egg Nog Jog is set to take place this Sunday and the long-term forecast looks co-operative, calling for a few snow flurries and a high temperature of about -2 C.

Organized by the Georgetown Runners, the Egg Nog Jog is comprised of an open 10.8-kilometre foot race and a One Mile Smile for youths ages 11 and under, with the course surrounding the Terra Cotta Conservation Area, where the start and finish lines are located.

The race field has been closed with 600 participants set to take part beginning at 10:30 a.m.

Roads in the area will be open to traffic throughout the race and runners are required to stay on the right side of the roadway.

Parking at the conservation area is limited and carpooling is encouraged.

Group supports hospital's Project X

A group of local business owners and employees got together recently to view a blockbuster Hollywood film and raise some funds for Georgetown Hospital Foundation's Project X campaign.

Georgetown Business 2 Community (B2C) rented the Brampton Silver City Cineplex Cinema for a private screening of the new DC Comics Justice League movie on its opening weekend, and after the world had been saved, $4,100 was raised for Project X, which has a goal set of generating $1.5 million for the purchase of digital X-ray equipment.

Guests of B2C purchased tickets for the movie and made donations to the charity, while a 50/50 draw was held and raffle tickets were sold for many prizes that had been contributed by B2C members.

In addition to the hospital donation, B2C recently contributed $6,000 to Food 4 Kids and gave $500 to Circa-Fit's Stuff The Truck event held this past Saturday

(Dec. 2) to collect food items for the Georgetown Bread Basket.

B2C meets once a week to mentor and exchange referrals to one another, aside from its charitable contributions.

"Our mission statement is to have an impact within our community either through our volunteering efforts in local charitable functions, such as the Classics Car Show for Cancer, or our fundraising initiatives," said Georgetown B2C president Dr. Corey Grossman.
