Halton Hills officers honoured for saving elderly man in 2012

Two Halton Hills police officers were recognized by St. John Ambulance Tuesday for their lifesaving efforts.

Constables Naresh Dabas and Matthew Floyd received Lifesaving Awards for saving an elderly Georgetown man's life in August 2012.

While awaiting the arrival of EMS personnel, Dabas and Floyd performed CPR on the man who had collapsed just outside of his apartment and had no vital signs when they arrived. The officers immediately initiated CPR.

Dabas did chest compressions and Floyd, using the pocket respirator issued to him, performed rescue breathing.

They continued CPR for three to four minutes until paramedics arrived and took over.

The man regained a pulse and was transported to Georgetown Hospital. Upon arrival at hospital he was breathing on his own and in stable condition.

If it had not been for the immediate response of the officers the man would have died.

Five Milton officers also received Lifesaving Awards and two other Milton officers received St. John Ambulance Lifesaving certificates.

St. Francis remembers Terry Fox

St. Francis of Assisi School students recently held their own Terry Fox Walk, as Nico Tallarico and Julieanne Gallant carried the cross to lead the procession.
