certification. The building has numerous green features— a geothermal heating and cooling system, thermally efficient exterior walls and maximum glazing on the south side; exterior windows oriented to optimize sun exposure during the winter; strategic design of interior spaces to bring in daylight; light sensors to optimize artificial lighting; energy-efficient lighting fixtures and reduced lighting power density; energy recovery ventilators (ERV) units; and low-flow toilets and plumbing fixtures.

“FCM’s Green Municipal Fund offers a range of resources and services that specifically address the sustainable community development needs of municipal governments,” said Vrbanovic.

“Today’s announcement is another example of how our government— in partnership with FCM— is helping the Town of Halton Hills build a greener future for our citizens,” said Chong.

Between 1,000-1,200 residents attended the opening festivities Saturday including ribbon cutting ceremony, meet and greet visit by CBC Hockey Night in Canada commentator and author Gord Stellick, entertainment, Paws to Read therapy dogs, scavenger hunts and prizes.

The Local History Room will officially open on Feb. 9 at 7:30 p.m. with local historian Rick Ruggle discussing the various Temperance movements in Esquesing and those who flaunted the local laws.
