

Wastewise helps
Members of Wastewise (from left) Mike Foley, Marsha Batchelor and Debbie Smart recently presented a cheque worth $15,000 to Town of Halton Hills Mayor Rick Bonnette and Superintendent of Public Works Dick Spear. The funds were raised through the revenues of selling used goods at Wastewise's Armstrong Ave. location. The $15,000 donation will allow for the fabrication of 90 of the wire mesh recycling bins (pictured) and the remaining funds will be used for advertisements in the Community Guide and local newspapers as part of the launch this spring.

Driver charged in death of senior last December

A 37-year-old Georgetown woman has been charged with careless driving and driving with a handheld communications device after a crash on Guelph St. that killed an 89-year-old woman.

The collision occurred Dec. 17 while Patricia McCarthy, 89, of Georgetown was crossing in the crosswalk at Guelph St. at Sinclair Ave. McCarthy succumbed to her injuries Dec. 20.

Jennifer Unsworth is charged under the Highway Traffic Act (HTA) and has been summoned to appear in a Milton court March 25.

Sergeant Paul Davies, of the collision reconstruction unit, said police decided to lay HTA charges and not more serious criminal charges because "the evidence best fit HTA."

He said he could not elaborate on what that evidence is.
