COMMON QUESTIONS ABOUT TINNITUS - PART 2

DO WE KNOW WHAT TINNITUS IS?

The actual cause or event or mechanism of Tinnitus is not known. We know it is real; it is a symptom that something is wrong in the auditory system, but we do not know what that something is. We do know that it is not the patients imagination; it is a physiological or neurological event. There is reason to be hopeful because current research using a Tinnitus model may provide the necessary information for identifying it's cause.

IS IT ASSOCIATED WITH HEARING LOSS?

In most cases, Tinnitus is associated with some hearing loss. For example, those who have been exposed to excessively loud sounds may have a hearing loss for the high pitched tones. Usually their Tinnitus will be located as a high pitched tone in the region of the hearing loss. In some cases Tinnitus is present where there is no hearing loss and for no discernable reason.

LEARNING TO LIVE WITH DENTURES

Learning to live with dentures often requires a period of adjustment. This time can be shortened if the patient adopts a good mental attitude and is patient and determined to wear his or her dentures. It doesn't matter how much difficulty one experiences at first, as you will gradually learn to use false teeth. A few denture wearers do not assume the right mental attitude, and without giving their new teeth a fair trial, begin to think their case is hopeless. These few people will never learn to wear dentures unless they make up their minds to conquer their difficulty. Remember, it takes about four times longer to master a lower denture than an upper denture.

Also, it is important to remember that it isn't always the person with the smallest quantity of gum or ridges that is the hardest to fit, and who apparently would have the most problems. These people usually realize that their case is more difficult, and knowing this, are prepared for anything. When they get their dentures, they find that denture wearing isn't as bad as they feared. Many people have accepted the challenge of wearing dentures, and won. You can too! Don't hesitate to call our office for information you might need regarding your dentures.
