

Info sessions to be held during Adult Learner Week

Come and celebrate Adult Learner's Week April 6-14, with your local Adult Learning Centre.

In today's world, it's imperative that every adult has a high school education and even college education or skills training to maximize their potential in today's global economy. According to the recent federal budget, we can expect to see a strong focus on skills training and apprenticeship programs for Canadian workers in order to cope with the growing number of jobs that are going unfilled in these areas. Whether in the workplace or at home raising children, adults need education to succeed.

Whether you are an individual looking to earn your Grade 12 or GED, apply to college or apprenticeship training, or learn basic computer skills for employment, the Adult Learning Centre can help.

Why not attend one of the free info sessions taking place from April 8-11:

- Monday, April 8, 1:30 p.m. at the Adult Learning Centre, 72 Mill St., Georgetown, Suite 206
- Tuesday, April 9, 9:30 a.m. at the Georgetown library (lower level)
- Wednesday, April 10, 6-7 p.m. at the Adult Learning Centre
- Thursday, April 11, 9:30 a.m. at Acton library
