

Still time to register for this weekend's Cultural Symposium

It's not too late to register for the Halton Hills Cultural Roundtable Cultural Symposium at the Cultural Centre this weekend!

Come and join other arts, culture, heritage and volunteer individuals, groups and businesses to celebrate the community. Registration: $40 online January 17-25 or by email/at door anytime; $20 online Friday only; $20 online Saturday only.

The Friday night event includes a Mix and Mingle with local music and art display, the presentation of the 2014 Arts Alive Awards and a 2013 Cultural Highlights Video.

Saturday events, from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m., include a breakfast at the Georgetown Legion, the AGM at the Cultural Centre, followed by sessions:

- Culture in Our Community— get started on building a visual artist network, increasing volunteer resources, planning a youth music event, using the new community brand or designing a K-8 performing arts school series

- Speed Networking— get to connect with a whole bunch of people quickly and build new partnerships

Learning Sessions include:

- Online Tools To Spike Your Productivity and Help You Collaborate— Join Dennis King and discover how you can save time, share, and collaborate with on-line tools and apps. Find out how others are using these tools. You'll see examples of popular and lesser-known tools that you can use right away. Even if you feel like a total beginner you'll get tips on how to ease into the world of online tools without feeling overwhelmed.

- De-Mystifying Marketing: How to Market Effectively in Today's World— Hear from local experts Eric Doubt, Andrea Dubravsky, Marnie Hughes, Peter Perko, and Betty-Anne Whipp about the range of marketing possibilities and how to make the most of each.

- Cultural Tourism: Are You Ready?— Along with Halton Region's Jan Marquez and Chamber's Kathleen Dills find out all about cultural tourism including who is already coming to Halton Hills, the impact of the Premium Outlets and how to make the most of cultural tourist opportunities.
