Police blotter

Local man charged with trafficking

A Georgetown man is facing drug charges after Halton Police searched a home Friday.

Found during the search of the Georgetown home were 92.4 grams of cocaine, 5 grams of ketamine, three cocaine presses, 26.9 grams of cutting agent, cash and three cell phones.

Charged with trafficking in a controlled substance, possession for the purpose of trafficking, and possession of a controlled substance is T.J. William Norrie, 30. Norrie was held for a bail hearing.

Flatbed trailer theft

Halton Police are investigating the theft of a $100,000 flatbed trailer from a Five Sideroad location sometime between Thursday and Monday. The unloaded trailer (L4489C license plate) was parked in a lot. It has orange axles and orange reflective tape running the length of both sides.

Police warn of surge in internet and job scams

A recent surge in fraud occurrences has prompted Halton Police to once again caution the public about responding to such offers, emails or scams.

Two continuing trends include:

1. Malicious software: Victims receive a phone call from an individual who identifies themselves as a representative of a software firm. The individual will advise that they have identified the victim's computer is at risk and offer to "fix" the problems for a fee and request remote access to examine it. Providing credit card or bank account information for payment results in further fraudulent transactions occurring on the victim's accounts. Malicious software may also be installed on the victim's computer, compromising personal and financial records and passwords.

2. Job scams: The "mystery shopper" scam entices victims to become employed as a mystery shopper. Once "employed", the victim is sent a cheque for a large amount of money to be used to test the company's procedure and customer service skills. After receiving the cheque, the victim is requested to deposit it in their bank account, withdraw the funds and send them to a third party via a money transfer company. The victim will find out later that the cheque was counterfeit, thus making the victim accountable to pay for the funds he/she transferred.

Georgetown's Favourite Yoga Instruction Studio 2 Yoga

presents Sridaiva Yoga with John Friend and Desi Springer

Sridaiva Yoga

In this workshop, learn the Sridaiva optimal bow-spring postural alignment that seems radical, yet accessible to everyone. Students of all ages, particularly over 40, can benefit from learning the bow-spring alignment to optimize their health.

John and Desi will lead you through a variety of basic dynamic postures and transitional movements "Although the system is designed to be easily comprehensible for any level student, but the practice is challenging because:

- It targets 4 key unconscious postural patterns of protection, pain-reduction, and sensory withdrawal, which lead to health imbalances.
- requires conscious toning of all the extensor muscles of the posterior body
- key alignment instructions are very different and many times opposite than what is often taught in other schools of yoga"

When: Thursday March 6th, 6:30pm-9:00pm
Friday March 7th, 9:00am-11:30am.
$55 per workshop or $100 for both
