Make the right prom call

They stood huddled together on a grassy hill, eyes wide open as firefighters used the Jaws of Life to cut away at a mangled vehicle to free the trapped passenger inside.

A girl laid on the asphalt, thrown from a vehicle, blood pooling around her head.

Another young girl yelled she couldn't feel her legs as she sat confined to the backseat of an SUV, police and ambulance sirens whaled in the background.

The head-on collision caused extensive damage to the vehicles involved. It left one person dead. One of the drivers was impaired.

The dramatic accident was just that, a dramatized scene acted out to illustrate to teenagers just how deadly drinking and driving can

It couldn't have come at a more opportune time to capture its young audience.

Prom season is just around the corner — a time when thousands of students will head out into the night to celebrate what will be one of the most memorable milestones of their young lives.

What police forces across Ontario and MADD Canada are hoping is that kids celebrating realize the very real consequences of drinking and driving, not to mention distracted driv-

The very real dramatization took place in Bracebridge. Sometimes it takes seeing something that actually happened to someone else for it to really sink in.

There were 57 people killed in impaired collisions in 2013, according to the Ontario Provincial Police. They were someone's sons, daughters, sisters and brothers, husbands and

How many families and friends are affected by just one tragedy?

The consequences are far reaching. Schools in communities across the province have held awareness campaigns to show students the impacts of dangerous and impaired driving. It's just not worth it.

Letters to the editor

Refusing your ballot sends a strong message

If you are like me and are entirely fed up with the lousy choices we have been presented with in this upcoming provincial election, here's how to send these political incompetents a strong message refuse your ballot.

This is the choice you have that the election officials and the politicians do not want you to know about.

Simply show up to vote the way you always do, and when you are handed your ballot, hand it right back to them and tell them you are refusing your ballot.

Refused ballots are recorded separately from all other ballots, and send a direct message to the government that you're not apathetic or uninformed, you are entirely unhappy with the choices that have been presented, and reject them all.

So if you're tired of politicians flushing your hard earned tax dollars down the drain by the billions, tired of robot-like talking heads telling you how their party's doctrine is the only one that will work, or others who seem to have no idea or realistic plan for how to manage an economy at all - tell them all "thanks, but no thanks".... here's what you can do with my vote.

Thanks for the bowling support

The Georgetown Lawn Bowling Club wishes to express our appreciation for your promotion of our club's open house via the *Indepen*dent's Community Calendar and in the Sideroads Coming Events.

This last weekend the weather was co-operative and we had 36 brave souls come out and try their hand at our sport.

There was a broad range of ages in this group, which supports the claim that this is indeed an intergenerational sport.

A lot of fun was had by all.

The winners of our fundraising raffle were drawn on Sunday, May 25 and congratulations go to the following lucky people:

- ticket No. 0305 Lynda Spiteri of Georgetown was first prize win-
- ticket No. 0633 Rita Doernbach of Georgetown was the second prize winner;
- ticket No. 0338 Liz Ples of Wiarton, Ontario was the third prize

Our thanks goes to all those who donated to the prizes, sold and bought tickets making this such a successful fundraiser for us.

> Frank Anthony, president, Georgetown Lawn Bowling Club
