Floor masters

Carpet Barn owner/manager Jamie Watt and sales professionals Sue Lindsay and Betty McFarlane display some Vero Stone samples in their Guelph Street location in Georgetown. Are you sick of your cold hard or dated ceramic tile? Scared of the cost and mess to rip it out and change it? This summer you can warm up with more than just the weather. Luxury tile is changing the face of flooring one kitchen at a time. Products like Vera Stone are actually a fully groutable composite tile that looks like a true ceramic without the coldness and hardness that goes with it. Aside from being warmer, most people can't tell the difference. Carpet Barn Carpet One is now in its 41st year in the same location and owned by the same families since it began in 1973.
