GLT hands out its Jester Awards

By ROXANNE THORNTON

Georgetown Little Theatre

Georgetown Little Theatre held its gala Patrons' Dinner and Jesters' Awards night recently at their studio on Stewarttown Rd. The Jesters was sponsored this season by Sharon Vandenberg in loving memory of her husband Pete.

Patrons, subscribers, actors, directors, producers and members of casts and crews all came to celebrate and to recognize their very best. For GLT members, winning the coveted Jester (hand created by glass artist Skytree Smith) is like earning an Academy Award. Just to be nominated by our GLT subscribers is certainly recognition of a job well done, but to win, that is a real honour.

Director Kathryn DeLory and producer Patricia Ball won Best Play for Norm Foster's Skin Flick. Linda Spence won Best Supporting Actress and Pamela Keyes won Best Actress.

The director (Pamela Niesiobedzki-Curtis) and producer (Gillian Taggart) of Terry Pratchett's Going Postal won Best Production Values (outstanding set, costume lighting and sound design.)

The Michael Parker farce, Who's In Bed with the Butler, garnered several awards. Best Supporting Actor was Gary McIlravey. Best Actor was Michael Halsall. Also director Alex Kanarek's cast won the Best Ensemble award.

So often when one thinks about theatre, one only considers the actors, but where would they be if there were not dedicated volunteers designing and building sets, creating props, or doing the multitude of tasks that no one really sees.

Georgetown Little Theatre would like to thank these silent helpers as well as the fabulous patrons and subscribers who make it all possible.
