

Town to hold public info centre on Armstrong Ave. reconstruction

The Town of Halton Hills has initiated a study to determine the best design alternatives to address the rehabilitation of Armstrong Avenue from Mountainview Road N., to Guelph St.

R.J. Burnside & Associated Limited has been retained by the Town to undertake the development of design alternatives.

A key component of the study is consultation with agencies, residents and interested stakeholders. There are opportunities for public input and comment throughout the Class EA process. Information gathering meetings will be held throughout the study.

The first Information Centre will be held this Tuesday, June 17, 3-6 p.m. at Mold-Masters SportsPlex, 221 Guelph St. At this meeting there will be an opportunity to review the preliminary project drawings and to discuss any potential construction disruptions that may result from the proposed works.

Representatives from the Town of Halton Hills and R.J. Burnside will be in attendance to answer any questions.
