LNH celebrates its volunteers and champs

Literacy North Halton, operating the Adult Learning Centre in Georgetown, Milton and Acton, recently held its Awards and Volunteer Recognition event at the Halton Hills Public Library-Georgetown Branch. Awards were given to organizations and individuals in recognition of their consistent support of LNH work; promoting and delivering life long learning in the community.

Champions of Literacy Awards for 2014 went to:

Town of Halton Hills (received by Mayor Rick Bonnette), Halton Hills Library Board (received by Library Services Director Jane Diamanti), Maple Lodge Farms Foundation (received by Wendy Robson), Rotary Clubs Georgetown and Acton (received by Linda Zammit and Bill Wheaton), St. Alban's Church, Glen Williams (received by Rev. Aaron Orear), Traffix -Milton (received by Ann Mary Snow) and Retired Teachers North Halton.

Dympna Dewar (right) of Literacy North Halton's Adult Learning Centre presented Elizabeth Powell with the Eileen Evans Student of the Year award. Powell worked hard throughout the year, and was guided by Cindy Wilson (left).

Through financial and in kind support, these individuals and organisations have allowed the Adult Learning Centre to continue to provide support for family and adult literacy in the community.
