Campaign begins for 38 candidates

Halton Hills residents will have a lot of candidates to choose from in the upcoming municipal election with 38 of them vying for 15 elected positions.

Nominations closed for the Oct. 27 election at 2 p.m. Friday and there are races for every post except one.

Wards 1/2 Regional Councillor Clark Somerville is the only acclaimed candidate. The Acton resident didn't have a challenger in the 2010 election.

The incumbents are back in every council race except for Ward 2— Joan Robson, who has been a ward councillor since 2000, has chosen to retire.

Mayor Rick Bonnette, who was acclaimed last election, is being challenged this time around by Sally Stull.

Town Council Ward 3 is the most crowded field with six candidates vying for the two posts, and in Ward 1 there are five people running for the two council spots.

Regional Chair Gary Carr has three challengers and the local races for Halton school board trustees have two candidates each.
