The Searcher Group to tell ghostly tales this weekend

Halloween at the Halton Hills Public Library has become a little more ghostly with two upcoming talks from The Searcher Group, well-known researchers into hauntings and supernatural phenomena.

The Searcher Group is known for popular investigations conducted at the Canadian National Exhibition, Queen's Park and Casa Loma, as well as making television appearances on CityTV's Breakfast Television and Discovery Channel's A Haunting.

In their Halloween-themed Halton Hills shows, they will be sharing stories about their eerie experiences with haunted places, including some familiar local landmarks.

Haunt the Library with the Searcher Group:

- Saturday, Oct. 25, 3-5 p.m., Georgetown Branch
- Sunday, Oct. 26, 2-4 p.m., Acton Town Hall Centre

Tickets for both events are on sale

The Searcher Group now at the Halton Hills Public Library for $10 each, with all ticket sales supporting the Library.

The Search Group founder, Richard Palmisano, has authored a new book Meeting Place of the The Dead— A True Haunting, featuring a ghostly investigation of a Winston Churchill Blvd. Norval property. Copies of the book are available at the library as well as in e-book format.
