Fifteen face charges in drug bust

Halton Police have arrested 15 people and seized drugs, cash and firearms in an eight-month trafficking investigation.

The Service's Drug, Gun and Gang Unit began an investigation in April into a group police believed were involved with trafficking cocaine and marijuana. The investigation revealed the network was well entrenched in the drug culture in Halton Region, Hamilton and Toronto.

Halton Police say technology and counter-detection techniques used by the group were obstacles to the investigative team but it was able to unravel the layers of the sophisticated drug trafficking operation.

On Monday Halton Police, assisted by police from Hamilton, Waterloo, Niagara, Peel and Durham as well as by Ontario Provincial Police executed 15 search warrants throughout Hamilton, Halton and Toronto.

As a result 15 people are facing charges, and police say they have disrupted and possibly dismantled a drug trafficking network. Those charged were from the Milton, Oakville, Burlington, Hamilton and Toronto areas.
