

Scion announces new product

After revealing the iM Concept at the Los Angeles Auto Show, Scion has announced that a production version of the versatile five-door compact hatchback will be coming to dealerships in 2015.

Fans will get a first look at the road-ready, sporty ride – and another new Scion model – at the New York International Auto Show in April.

The iM Concept is a hatchback that earns its name from characteristics aimed at this evolving audience.

The “i” stands for individuality, intriguing and a good fit for customers’ income.

The “M” stands for modern, multifaceted and magnetic. Its captivating styling and custom-blended “Incrediblue” paint are complemented by matte silver and gunmetal accents.

Mr. and Mrs. Spencer of Georgetown won $1,000 from Georgetown Toyota in the three day give away event this month. Here, Marc Smith, salesperson Georgetown Toyota, and Gord Russell, general sales manager of Georgetown Toyota present the cheque. The Spencers purchased a 2011 Toyota Venza to be entered.

New luxury from Cadillac

No time today to make it to the spa or schedule a visit with the massage therapist, no problem.

On two 2015 models, Cadillac is offering front driver and passenger seats that can knead, roll and relax your back as you drive.

An anti-fatigue option is also offered for the driver.

The 22-way adjustable heated and ventilated seats now have a luxury option with a massage seat that works in the upper shoulder area, back lumbar or cushion.

The massage seats’ settings can be stored in the car’s memory like the seat positions.

With a toggle switch or activation button, both on the outboard base of the seats, the driver and front seat passenger can direct the illustration of adjustments on the infotainment screen.
