Park and relocate the seniors centre there instead.

The Town's plans are to eventually relocate Hillsideview Centre Georgetown into Phase 2 of Gellert Community Centre when it is built, but that isn't expected for some time. In October 2014 the Town renewed the seniors centre lease for five years at its 318 Guelph St. location.

Councillor Moya Johnson said the Cedarvale facility is more central to many of the town's seniors who live in the northern part of Georgetown.

"It makes more sense to make the changes to a building we own and move the seniors there," said Johnson.
