Boris Spremo headlines Photoart show

An "Evening with Boris Spremo", the famed photojournalist headlines this year's Halton Hills Camera Club's Annual PhotoArt Show, which will be on view in the Cultural Centre's Sisnett Lobby until March 29.

Spremo will discuss his fascinating career on Saturday, March 21 at 7 p.m. at the Cultural Centre's John Elliott Theatre. Tickets, $10, may be obtained by contacting the Box Office, 905-877-3700, or www.haltonhills.ca/theatre

After retiring in 2000 from a 40-year career as a photojournalist, primarily with

The Toronto Star, some people refer to Boris Spremo as the Grandfather of photojournalism. During his career, Spremo won almost 300 national and international awards and in 1997, Spremo was awarded Canada's highest honour, the "Order of Canada" (C.M.) for his years of photographic excellence.

Spremo shares his insight, experience and award-winning images from the exciting world of photojournalism— assignments that have taken him around the world covering wars, famine, politics and celebrities, inspiring a new generation of photographers.
