

Bach Chorale
presents
St. John Passion
on Good Friday

By Ron Greidanus
Georgetown Bach Chorale

Good Friday has traditionally been a very powerful and yet reflective day— powerful in its message but reflective in its commentary on the human condition.

Together with marvellous soloists and international Baroque specialists from as far away as Vienna, the Georgetown Bach Chorale presents Christ from John's Gospel, by Johann Sebastian Bach.

Guest tenor Michael Taylor is worth the price of admission. As the Evangelist, he delivers the story with a seamless lyric sound. Counter tenor Fernando Lima will also be joining the Chorale for the first time.

Bach creates an unstaged opera that is filled with dramatic recitativo interspersed with sublime chorales and marvellous solos; this timeless music comes to life telling the story that is the foundation of the Christian faith.

Good Friday's performance, complete with harpsichord, organ, and baroque period instruments will take you back in time to how Bach would have heard it himself.

The performance begins at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, April 3 at Knox Presbyterian Church in downtown Georgetown, 116 Main St. South.

Tickets $30 for general admission/$10 for students can be purchased at Foodstuffs on Main St. S., Pat's Meats and Deli on Mountainview Rd. S. in Georgetown South or at the Holland Shop on Mill St. in Acton. For more information, please call 905-873-9909.
