Garden tips to be offered at April's Walk and Talk

If you have ever been to the Dufferin Rural Heritage Community Centre during weekday mornings, you already know that this lovely community inspired centre has more than soccer, lacrosse, rugby, baseball, and the Acton Fall Fair going on!

In fact mornings are very active and very diverse during the "Drop into Dufferin Morning Program". This program operates from 9 a.m. until noon, Monday through Friday, January through to May on a "drop in" basis for the residents of Acton, Georgetown, Milton, Rockwood and surrounding nearby towns.

There are plenty of active minded adults whom access the centre on a regular basis for walking, jogging, pole-walking, and a bit of badminton. Children visit free of charge and utilize the indoor sport field to burn off some youthful energy on the large turf area.

In the spring, however, the Dufferin Community Centre is also a learning centre. During March and April, a series of special interest workshops is held as a supplement to the active portion of the morning. Labeled as the "Walk and Talk" series, various local businesses have teamed up with Dufferin Centre manager, Betty Walsh to host workshops that highlight each business. Participants get an "added value" morning of activity plus information regarding the services offered.

On Monday, April 13, Walk & Talk will feature Mike Tessaro from Reds Garden Centre, 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Tessaro will be sharing some of his favourite choices for your garden, give tips and help solve any gardening problems. A question and answer forum will complete his presentation.
