Five days notice is required before strike

-vincial level last week but the OSSTF says they will resume.

The local level talks are centered on non-monetary issues. Monetary items are bargained provincially at a central table. It is the first time a two-tiered bargaining process has been used in Ontario. Teachers province-wide have been without a contract since Aug. 31, 2014.

The provincial government has said there is no money in its budget for raises in the public sector.

A provincial conciliator brought in to aid the bargaining process issued a no-board report at the end of March, placing the two Halton sides in a legal strike or lockout position as of April 17.

However, under the Ontario Labour Relations Act, a minimum of five days' notice must be given before any strike or lockout can occur. None has been given to date.

Parents seeking more information about a possible local strike or lockout can visit the Halton public board's Frequently Asked Questions section at <http://goo.gl/ziMTzc>.
