Review: Sex Please, We're Sixty is a laugh

Georgetown Little Theatre concludes its Laugh Local Season with its latest offering, Sex Please, We're Sixty, a farce written by Michael and Susan Parker, and directed by Mike Butterworth.

The show opened Friday night at the John Elliott Theatre and continues this week.

The plot centres around Rose Cottage Bed & Breakfast, operated by precise Mrs. Stancliffe (Patricia Ball) and her neighbour Bud "The Stud" Davis (Mike Tadic), a man with a voracious sexual appetite, aided by some little blue pills. Mrs. Stancliffe's other neighbour is hapless Henry Mitchell (Bob Land), who has been pursuing the B&B owner unsuccessfully for 25 years. So the retired chemist decides to invent his own little blue pills called Venusia— only they increase the libido of menopausal women.

Enter three middle-aged women guests: Victoria Ambrose (Sharonne Young), a romance novelist with writer's block; Charmaine Beauregard (Patti Caruso), someone with an appetite to match Bud's; and Hillary Hudson (Karen Brodie), a former colleague of Henry's, who has come to test his Venusia.

The plot thickens when Bud's cavorting with all three ladies is discovered, and they seek revenge by replacing his Viagra with Venusia. Let the laughter begin.

The show is fairly flat in the first act as each character is introduced, but it gets rolling in the second act, with hilarious results.

Once again GLT has put together an evenly talented cast of actors, each competently portraying their character.

While Tadic provides much of the physical comedy and buffoonery throughout the play, it's Land who is the standout in the second half as his character is influenced by the consumption of his own Venusia.

Once again, GLT back stage workers have provided the best set and lighting to convey that atmosphere of a New England cottage in the summertime.

This is a play with adult content, although that content is mainly about little blue pills and couch football. It's a good play for a couple's evening out or for a women's night with the girls (particularly if the girls are over age 40).

Did you think incontinence was just a "woman's issue"?

Learn how physiotherapy can help men with Pelvic Health, including incontinence and pain after prostate surgery.

Incontinence can be dramatic following prostate surgery or radiation treatment. Men are alarmed by the immediate decrease in their quality of life that comes with being reliant on urinary pads throughout the day.

Did you know?

The scientific research clearly shows that men who receive physiotherapy BEFORE and AFTER prostate surgery gain control of their bladder quicker.
