

Nature inspired latest exhibit at
Red Door Gallery

This spring we could all enjoy a little colour and inspiration, and Red Door Gallery's new show "Nature's Marquee" has just that.

Photographer Melissa Auchincloss-Smith and painter Linda Donais Weir capture glimpses of colour in nature and want to share it with you.

"As artists who love nature we strive to slow down moments in our existence; the moments where you are struck by the beauty that surrounds you in the world. The moments where the light is skimming over a dock at summer's end, the moment of silence in the morning as the mist is hovering over the calm water," they stated in a press release. "We preserve these moments; all you need to do is stop, take a breath and enjoy the calming images of nature's marquee all around you."

Field of Blue, Linda Weir

Red Door Gallery is hosting an open evening Friday, May 22, 5-8 p.m. when guests can browse, enjoy a cool drink, relax after a busy week and see the show. Other events are planned too; a painting evening and photography nature walk. See www.reddoorgallery.ca for details.

The show runs May 21-June 7. Gallery hours are Thursdays to Sunday, 12-5 p.m., with special extended hours for the Farmer's Market on Saturday, June 6, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.
