Number Source

For the past five years, Salvina (Sil) Romagnuolo of the accounting firm "Number Source" has been offering Personal Tax Returns, corporate service-bookkeeping, corporate tax preparation and filing, audit support, accounting software training and consultation for business start ups. She has been working in the field for over 20 years and chose this direction because of her fascination with corporate accounting and numbers.

Sil loves helping and guiding people in the right direction with their money and business and she believes that many business owners are running blind on the financial side. If guided in the right direction, they will most likely succeed and grow their company, as Number Source doesn't just process data, they take the time to explain the numbers to business owners.

Halton Hills is a friendly, quiet town to live in and when Sil opened up here, she had other local businesses in mind. With today's economy, not all companies, especially small ones, are able to employ full-time or even part-time bookkeepers. They are a full-service firm of accountants and bookkeepers providing accounting, full-cycle bookkeeping services, Corporate & Personal Tax Returns at affordable rates.
