A split second was all it took to turn a local splash pad trip into a nightmare for a family this week after their son suffered second-degree burns from stepping on hot metal.

According to one-year-old Greyson Pel-vin's family, the youngster's feet were severely burned on Monday after he wandered onto ground-level metal doors at the Gellert Community Park while on a playdate with his mother Jill, two siblings and friends. He also sustained a minor burn to his right hand.
