New show opens at Williams Mill this week

Contrasting Energies opens at Williams Mill Visual Arts Centre in Glen Williams on Wednesday, Aug. 26 and continues until Sept. 13. An Opening Reception for the joint show of painter Freda Wrench and sculptor John Ashbourne will be held on Saturday, Aug. 29, 2-4 p.m.

Wrench was born in Alberta and has lived in Caledon for over 20 years. She has shown her work in numerous group, juried and solo shows. Her subjects are diverse, but often returns to the human figure, sometimes abstracting it and often incorporating it into the natural environment.

This interest began at an early age and continued while drawing fashion figures at George Brown College where she earned an Honours Degree in Fashion Design. Wrench's artistic education was achieved through workshops and evening classes and many hours of Freda Wrench's drawing and On the Beach painting. She is a member of the Headwaters Art Gallery Committee which has given her the opportunity to jury artwork, enabling her to look at her own work with a more critical eye.

Ashbourne was born in London, England but has lived most of his life in Canada. As a young man he was passionate about art, but family circumstances forced him to pursue a degree and career in business. His tutor complained that he spent more time at Tate Gallery than he ever did in college. His sculptures often use the natural qualities and textures of wood and take cues from animal and natural forms but also more abstract work about spatial relationships. His work has been exhibited nationally, and across Ontario. In 2014 he was elected to the Ontario Society of Artists.

All work in the show is for sale.
