

AHOY MATEYS, EXPLORE PIRATE SHIP ON HALLOWEEN: The exterior of an Acton home has been transformed into a skeleton pirate ship for a good cause this Halloween. Susan and Erika Gonzalez (centre) decked out their house and lawn at 329 Queen St. and will be accepting donations to Links-2Care on Halloween night. Also getting into the pirate spirit are niece Hayley Byers (far left) and sister Michelle Green, along with her miniature pony, Herman. Photo by Melanie Hennessey

High school students to collect food on Halloween

Trick or treaters won't be the only ones stopping by homes in Halton Hills this Saturday night as members of a charity make the rounds in their Halloween for Hunger campaign to benefit the Georgetown Bread Basket.

Founded by the global non-profit organization Me to We, high school students from the We Are One World group will be collecting non-perishable food items from 5-9 p.m. Saturday.

Advance notice of which streets are scheduled to be visited on Halloween night by the We Are One World representatives will be posted in those neighbourhoods this week.

For more info, or if you'd like to volunteer Saturday, email bradleybruder@outlook.com.
