Drunken Milton father drives erratically with young son unbuckled in back seat: police

Halton Regional Police Service has arrested a 39-year-old Milton man for alleged impaired driving under what they are calling "vexing circumstances."

Those circumstances involve a man allegedly driving erratically around a Milton neighbourhood and in a field behind a public school with his six-year-old son unbuckled in the back seat.

According to police, around 8 p.m. on Saturday night officers responded to several reports from citizens of a vehicle driving carelessly, hitting curbs and swerving in the area of Farmstead Drive and Louis St. Laurent Avenue.

Police located the vehicle driving in a field behind Boyne Public School. The driver was arrested for alleged impaired driving.

"To the officers' surprise, a six-year-old boy was found unbuckled in the back seat," Staff Sgt. Paul Davies said in a media release.

"The boy, believed to be the driver's son, was turned over to his mother at the scene. The mother was unaware that her estranged husband was driving around with their son in his vehicle." Police say the man was driven to the Milton police station where he provided samples of his breath. The readings were allegedly more than four times over the legal limit of 80 mgs. He faces a criminal charge of impaired driving and Highway Traffic Act charges related to the unbelted child.

"Halton police are grateful to the community for calling in to report such an incident and enabling officers to intercept immediately, thus averting a potential tragedy," Davis commented. Police will not be releasing the name of the accused to protect the identity of the child.
