Halton Hills Mayor Rick Bonnette is assuring residents that Activan services will continue after Tyler Transport halts its operations in June. The company says it will be ceasing all vehicle operations on June 30, the end of the school year.

The Acton transportation company was unsuccessful in their bid on the school busing contract under the province's new procurement policies - a move that Halton Hills council has unanimously opposed in a motion.

"It is with great sadness that we share Tyler Transport Limited will be ceasing all vehicle operations on June 30, 2018," said Angela Tyler in a press release.

She explained that Tyler Transport did in fact bid on the contract but was unsuccessful in its bid.

"After considering all of our business options, we have decided that this is the best course of action for our family and we are doing our utmost to support staff with their future endeavours."

Town staff are currently in negotiations to establish how the Activan services will move forward.

"Absolutely this affects the Activan services," said Bonnette, adding Tyler Transport has been the provider for 37 years. "Right now, Tyler Transport and our staff have had meetings on going forward. I am not privy to say what the solutions are at this time but what I had said last night is that there will be an update from staff to council shortly."

Bonnette says that regardless of the circumstances with the bus company, Activan will continue to be provided in Halton Hills.

Staff will be bringing forth a report on Activan later this month.

"I want to ensure the Activan users that there will be a service and that the town staff and council has no intention of cancelling the service it is a matter of how we go forward," said the mayor.

MATURE NEIGHBOURHOOD STUDY

GLEN WILLIAMS WALKING TOUR

The Town of Halton Hills is undertaking a study into the mature neighbourhoods of Glen Williams. It will examine whether the Town's Zoning By-law is effective in maintaining the character of these neighbourhoods and is in response to increased pressure for large scale home rebuilds that are sometimes referred to as "monster homes".
