Last month, a report recommending staff do more study on wells in Hornby was deferred at Regional council.

Residents have been complaining for some time cillor who lobbied to get water services to the residents in the area.

At a public meeting for the Premier Gateway Phase 1B in Halton Hills on May 7, Dalbir Singh Pawar, a resident on Hornby Road pleaded with Halton Hills Council to help him get water servicing.

His well ran dry over a year ago and told council that it hadn't fully recovered, despite Regional staff testing wells in the area and finding that they had replenished.

"The wells have never come back to the same level," said Somerville. "I wish we could have had this 10 years ago."

Previously, the Region could not extend municipal services to rural areas part of the Region Official Plan, however, the town of Halton Hills is adding an additional 75 hectares of land in the area to their urban boundary as part of the development of the Premier Gateway employment lands.

"Other properties remain outside of the Urban Area continue to have significant issues with a permanent, secure and consistent water supply from private wells," said staff in the report.

"There is significant information available to demonstrate that given the long-standing and significant impact to the aquifer has resulted in a long standing 'large-scale failure' consistent with Urban Services Guidelines," it added

The region will need to get clearance from the Credit Valley Conservation authority in order to move forward and expect to start construction in early 2019.
