'You have to stand up to bullying', says mayor

"Trump carries a big stick... you have to stand up to bullying every now and again."

- Mayor Rick Bonnette

Municipalities has also passed a motion in support, and Halton Hills awaits responses from other municipalities in the coming weeks.

"There's definitely some traction going on with the resolution," said Bonnette, who has since been interviewed by national Canadian outlets, and even American news organizations like CBS and China Global Television Network.

"What we're trying to do is a symbolic gesture," he said, talking about encouraging Canadians to buy products from their own country.

He says that in the grocery store, it's easy to choose Canadian products like French's mustard, Liberte yoghurt, or Strub's pickles.

"Instead of bourbon or Jack Daniel's you can buy Wisers," he said.

For larger industrial purchases, Bonnette says it's a bit harder.

A vehicle can cross the Canada-USA border multiple times before it's finished, assembled and ready for sale.

Steel guard rails can be finished in the states, but the steel or aluminum can be fabricated in Windsor or Hamilton.

Last month, CD Howe released a report stating that over 6,000 Canadian jobs would be lost in the steel and aluminum industry over Trump's tariffs.

"Those are real Canadian families who have hopes and dreams," said Bonnette.

"Trump carries a big stick ... you have to stand up to bullying every now and again."
