CV's Sweets offers up edible artistry

VERONICA APPIA
 vappia@metroland.com

Georgetown baker Courtney Vokes was always an artistic child, but it wasn't until later into her teenage years when she discovered a passion for baking.

"I kind of grew up in the kitchen. I watched my grandmother bake and my mother bake, but it was never something I thought I'd ever really do," she said.

But once she began as a hobby, she just couldn't stop. Vokes went from baking for family events, to baking for friends and neighbours and then in October 2017, she officially launched CV's Sweets, where she creates custom orders for colourful and elaborately detailed cakes, cupcakes and sugar cookies.

"I like baking and I personally like the sharing of it," Vokes said. "I find it very satisfying to see someone enjoying the food that I've made. It makes me feel so good and so happy to see that other people are happy with what I created."

Vokes bakes and decorates all her treats from her home in Stewarttown. She offers up options for large or small events, but does not sell gluten-free, egg-free or sugar-free cakes. She also does not offer wedding cakes.

All orders with CV's Sweets require a minimum of two weeks notice, with the exception of multi-tiered cakes, which require four weeks.
