Dad and daughter receive gift from Georgetown Toyota

VERONICA APPIA
vappia@metroland.com

For Georgetown dad David Corley, a reliable vehicle is crucial for his daughter's health.

Corley is the primary caregiver to his two-year-old daughter Violet and their life is more complicated than most.

Violet was born with CHARGE syndrome. She has had a tracheostomy, she has a feeding tube, and she is in need of a hearing aid for one of her ears. She is also visually impaired.

Corley says he tries his best to balance life and provide Violet with all the services and equipment she requires, but it's certainly not easy.

"Life's difficult trying to go to work and trying to take care of her," Corley said. "When I first got custody of her, I had nothing. I had a little bit of money put away and it costs so much to get her supplies and all that. I ended up going broke at that point." Violet now goes to day-
