HALTON HILLS GETS BRAND NEW ENTRANCE SIGNS

Veronica Appia/Metroland

Members of local service organizations gather around the new welcome sign on the town's west end.

Those driving into Georgetown are now being given a friendly welcome from two shiny new entrance signs on both the east and west ends of town.

Halton Hills Chamber of Commerce has recently updated the signs, which were initially installed in the 1970s, though they are both in slightly different locations than their predecessors.

The eastern sign is located on Guelph Street on the Norval Hill and the western sign can be found on Main Street North, opposite Ontario Street.

The original service partners featured on the signs participated in the selection of the new design.

"Halton Hills is small town living at its finest," said Amy Sykes of the Halton Hills Chamber of Commerce. "Our service partners are at the heart of that."

Mayor Rick Bonnette says he is pleased the town was a partner on the signage initiative.

"Community organizations are the lifeblood of municipalities and support the high quality of life that we all enjoy," he added.
