2018 BELLS OF PEACE

On Sunday afternoon at 4:30 p.m. the Georgetown Legion will be hosting a second ceremony in Remembrance Park to honour 100 years since armistice.

The Royal Anthem will play, followed by speeches from Rev. Barrow, the reading of First World War veterans and more in the official ceremony.

All are welcome at the Georgetown Legion branch following the service.

COMMUNITY

GEORGETOWN LEGION HOSTING BELLS OF PEACE INITIATIVE ON REMEMBRANCE DAY

At sunset on Nov. 11, starting in Newfoundland, churches across the nation will be ringing their bells 100 times to commemorate the 100th year since the treaty that ended the First World War was signed.

Called the Bells of Peace initiative, the tribute was formed by the Royal Canadian Legion in partnership with the federal government.

Halton Hills churches will be paying tribute by ringing their bells, beginning at 4:58 p.m.

"This is so vitally important - and emotionally important," Ray Clarke of the Royal Canadian Legion in Georgetown said, adding that his father was a veteran of the First World War and his two brothers served in the Second World War.

"To the community it should be quite emotional, too."

This initiative will follow a ceremony at Remembrance Park, beginning at 4:30 p.m., held by the Georgetown Legion. The ceremony will include the royal anthem, inspirational words by Rev. Peter Barrow, a reading of the names of veterans of the First World War by Ray Clarke, the playing of The Last Post, and a moment of silence, followed by the Act of Remembrance, flag-raising and O Canada.
