Norval Community Association members, along with Alex Richardson as Anne of Green Gables and Ro Coatsie as Lucy Maud Montgomery, accept a congratulatory letter from councillor Clark Somerville on behalf of the Town of Halton Hills, in honour of the 25th Anniversary of Montgomery Christmas.

NORVAL CELEBRATES 25TH ANNIVERSARY OF MONTGOMERY CHRISTMAS

Norval welcomed Anne of Green Gables admirers to town this weekend in celebration of the 25th anniversary of Montgomery Christmas.

Each year, the village celebrates the birthday of Lucy Maud Montgomery, who was born on Nov. 30, 1874. The famous author of Anne of Green Gables lived in Norval from 1926 to 1935, where she wrote five books and three-and-a-half volumes of personal journals, as well as many short stories and poems.

In honour of Montgomery, the Norval Community Association, St. Paul's Anglican Church, Norval United Church, Norval Presbyterian Church and St. Elias Church host annual church bazaars for local residents and visitors from all over the GTA.

This year, the celebrations included visits from Santa and Mrs. Claus, the Norval United Church Brass Band, Lucy Maud Montgomery portrayed by Ro Coatsie, and Anne of Green Gables portrayed by Alex Richardson. During the event on Nov. 24, regional Coun. Clark Somerville also brought greetings from Mayor Rick Bonnette and council, presenting a congratulatory letter to members of the Norval Community Association for their 25 years hosting the event.

POLICE CHORUS TO PUT ON CHRISTMAS CONCERT

They keep busy year-round at various police functions and at seniors' residences.

Now the community at large can enjoy the musical talents of the Halton Regional Police Chorus, which presents The Sounds of Christmas on Saturday, Dec. 1.

The concert will be held at Oakville's Glen Abbey United Church (1469 Nottinghill Gate), starting at 7 p.m.

Abbey Park High School musicians will make a special guest appearance.

Tickets are $20 each and available by call Tracy at 289-218-7267.

The chorus is made up of volunteers and is associated with the Halton Regional Police Service, with new members always welcome.
