Halton police say they believe the shooting at a home in south Georgetown Tuesday afternoon was not a random act.

"We don't believe there's any risk to the public at this time," said Staff Sgt. Chris Lawson following reports of shots being fired on Garrison Square.

Police officers, along with the tactical rescue and canine units, were dispatched to the scene near the intersection of Mountainview and Argyll roads around 4 p.m. Tuesday.

Several casing were recovered from the street in front of the targeted home and bullet holes were visible in a BMW parked in the driveway.

Police say nobody was home at the time of the incident.

There are no reports of injuries. The shooter fled the scene in a white or silver newer model Honda Accord or Hyundai, police say.

The shooter, who was seen with a black handgun, is described as male, approximately five-foot-nine, wearing a dark hoodie with possibly a darker-coloured jacket. No further description is currently available.

Any witnesses or anyone with information regarding the incident or who has video that may have captured the area between 3:45 p.m. and 4:05 p.m. is asked to contact Halton police at 905-825-4747 or the 1 District criminal investigations bureau at 905-825-4777, ext. 2415 or 2416.

Tips can also be submitted to Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-8477 (TIPS) and www.haltoncrimestoppers.ca.

WOMAN'S HOME-COOKED MEAL DELIVERY SERVICE GAINING MOMENTUM

Alexandra Heck/Metroland

After moving back home from Alberta with her husband, Alicia Kielburger started Nana's Kitchen a home-cooked meal delivery service. She delivers to busy parents, seniors, new-mothers and more.

There's plenty of ways to say I love you, but for Alicia Kielburger, it's with food.

She's spreading the love all over Shelburne, Orangeville, Erin and Georgetown with her new meal delivery service, Nana's Kitchen.

"Everything is as fresh as possible," said Kielburger, who makes everything from scratch, including her pasta and sauces.

"I'm not buying any pre-made foods," she said, explaining that she takes her influence from her Maltese and Italian grandmothers. "If you're going to do it, better do it right."

With menu items like shepherd's pie, pasta II forno and even easy-to-heat Crock-Pot meals, Kielburger caters to busy families, seniors and mothers. Meals are prepared in a commercial kitchen, complete with proper food handling, registration and insurance.

"In general, people just don't like cooking and I don't blame them," she said, adding that she loves to cook for her family, but hates to cook for herself.

"That's how I show my love and affection," said Kielburger, chuckling that her bacon-wrapped meat loaf is likely why her husband asked her to marry him. "It's the way to a man's heart."

Kielburger makes deliveries to Shelburne, Orangeville, Erin and Georgetown once a week. She attends trade-shows, and takes orders online.
