The Georgetown Lions Club is at it again.

The local group conducted its latest random act of kindness on March 30, this time surprising diners enjoying breakfast at Ares Restaurant with $10 vouchers to assist in paying for their meals.

The Lions handed out 52 coupons in total, with the club covering $500 of the tab and the balance coming from Ares.

"We know a lot of people head to Ares on the weekend for breakfast. It was a good way for our club to reach out to the community to demonstrate our ongoing commitment to Georgetown residents," said Lion Louie Violo. "It may motivate those people to think about joining our club or paying it forward."

The vouchers were the fourth act of kindness in the club's six-month campaign to spread joy in the community. During the Christmas season, the Lions provided gift cards to Links2Care to help families in need. In January, members handed out Happy Meal coupons to families dining out on a Saturday at McDonald's in Georgetown. In February, the club was at the Georgetown Hospital paying for patients' parking.

To date, the Georgetown Lions Club has dished out $2,000 to support its random acts of kindness.
