MELANIE HENNESSEY

If you're heading to the annual Canada Day festivities in Glen Williams, get ready for your close up.

Local artist Sara Heathfield has created an Instagram photo wall for the event, which will run all daylong in the hamlet. The Williams Mill-based painter and her colleagues are ready to take people's photos and share them on her Instagram @saraheathfield, where local residents can repost photos to their social media pages with the hashtag #CanadaDayInTheGlen.

Elsewhere at the celebration, the Georgetown Little Theatre will be managing the duck race this year starting at 4 p.m. Tickets can be purchased at the Georgetown Farmers Market, by calling 905-877-3422 or in person at the event.

Breakfast in Glen Williams Park runs from 8 to 10:30 a.m., with the parade on Confederation and Main streets at noon, then opening ceremonies with entertainment at the gazebo.

Items will be available for purchase from craft and food vendors. Due to minimal parking in the Glen, a shuttle bus will run every half-hour between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. to the Real Canadian Superstore parking lot.

St. Alban's Church will be offering a grilled chicken dinner at 6:30 p.m., followed by fireworks at dusk.

WELLNESS EVENING PLANNED IN SUPPORT OF CASHH

The local Better Together movement is gearing up to present an interactive wellness experience in support of a good cause.

The evening, slated for June 25 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at Furnace Room Brewery, will involve a learning experience from the Better Together team of health care and service providers - including a meditation/yoga therapist, registered dietician, physician, facial stretch therapist and wellness coach, among others.

Admission costs $20 per person. Proceeds from the interactive evening will benefit Cancer Assistance Services of Halton CASHh graphic Hills.

The Furnace Room Brewery is located at 1 Elgin St., Georgetown.

Q What happens if a vendor doesn't want to sell?

A If you have bought a property and the agreement of purchase and sale is firm (ie: not awaiting the fulfillment or waiving of any conditions), then a vendor who wishes to back out of the deal would be doing so at substantial risk. As a purchaser, you would have the right to sue for specific performance and damages.

Specific performance means performance of the contract. In this instance, it would be the transfer of the property for the agreed upon amount. Obtaining an order for specific performance depends on the type of property being bought. If you can make a case that the specific features of the property are particularly attractive to you and that monetary damages could not adequately compensate you for the loss of the property, then you would have a good case. In addition, you could register a certificate of pending litigation against the property to ensure that the vendor does not sell to anyone else in the meantime.
