THINGS TO DO

BUZZFEST RETURNS TO TERRA COTTA

JUDY VELLA

Terra Cotta's outdoor art, fine craft and gourmet food festival will return to Terra Cotta September 21 and 22 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The festival welcomes visiting artisans for a weekend filled with delicious food and samples, live music, complimentary henna and face painting, an antique car display and lots of great handmade products for purchase.

Hosted by the Terra Cotta Country Store, owners Judy Vella and Bob McCloskey, say the festival, now in its seventh year, continues to attract crowds who appreciate the high calibre of artistic offerings.

Once a year the couple transforms their property into a showcase where you can find paintings, hand blown glass, photography, hand crafted wooden works, natural beauty products, olive oils, chutneys, rubs, hot sauces, salad dressings, honey, pottery, ceramics, quilting, knitting, dips, textile art, chocolate, jams, jellies, jewelry, candles, and more.

Musicians performing this year include Matthew and Andrew Oliveira from the group Highway 50, Rob Mitchell, Cord Progressions and Erin's Marlore. McCloskey and Vella are also excited to be welcoming the charity Choose 2 be Resilient.

Terra Cotta's outdoor festival, Buzzfest, is back for a seventh year. The festival features art, craft, and gourmet food.

The organization honours the memories of Zach Sutherland and Kaya Firth. Through fundraising initiatives and the sale of pewter jewelry bearing the Celtic symbol of resilience, the families support youth who have experienced grief through scholarships.

Buzzfest promises to be a hive of activity! Admission is $5 for adults, children 12 and under are free.

Visit www.terracottacountrystore.ca for a full list of participating artisans.

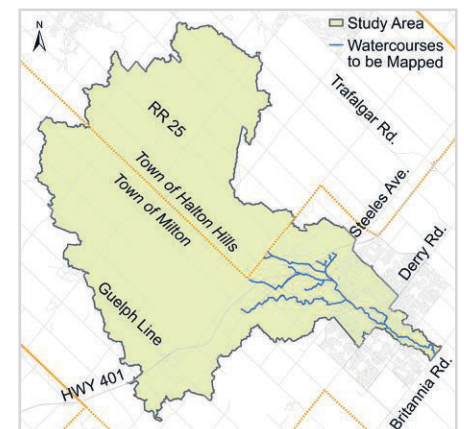

JOIN US for a Public Information Centre Urban Milton Flood Hazard Mapping

Conservation Halton has retained Greck and Associates Ltd. to generate flood hazard mapping for tributaries of 16 Mile Creek (West Branch) in Urban Milton.

New models and updated mapping generated through this project may be used by Conservation Halton, and municipal partners, for many purposes including:

- flood forecasting and warning,
- emergency planning and response,
- prioritizing future flood mitigation works,
- community planning and land use decision making,
- infrastructure renewal, and
- restoration works.

Public Consultation Conservation Halton will seek community feedback through two Public Information Centres (PICs). The first PIC will summarize the project scope. The second PIC will be held in March 2020, and will present draft study findings. Please drop by the PIC to find out more:
