A new restaurant in Georgetown will be the third generation of restaurateurs for a Halton Hills family.

Ivy-Lynn Halis, co-owner of Teddy's Greek Grill, said her family has always owned a restaurant.

When her grandparents were getting ready to retire from the restaurant they owned in Acton, co-owner Teddy Urbaniak built up his kitchen experience there.

"He would work 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and come here because he loved cooking," Halis said.

Urbaniak, the head chef, cooks cuisine curated by Halis' grandparents, who help prepare traditional Greek items like spanakopita and moussaka for the Grill.

"Grandma and Grandpa are the world to us," Halis said. "They make everything homemade."

Halis said during a trip to Greece to visit her grandfather's village, the recipes used were the same as the ones Teddy's works from.

"My grandparents would be upset if we made something that isn't from the recipes," Halis said.

While Greek fare features heavily on the menu, the Greek Grill also offers all-day breakfast and burgers, among other traditional diner items.

Teddy's Greek Grill is located at 118 Guelph St.
