The Georgetown hospital will get some much-needed upgrades.

Milton MPP Parm Gill announced that the hospital will receive $444,000 for infrastructure projects. The money is part of a $564,000 commitment to Halton Healthcare, with the remaining money going to the Milton hospital.

Prior to the announcement, Gill took a tour of the hospital.

"This building was built back in 1958, '59, so you expect it to be dated - but to see it first-hand, how old some of the infrastructure is, it kind of puts it in perspective," he said. "Just to hear and see some of the challenges they face, it definitely gives a good perspective."

The money will be used for replacement of waterlines and air-handling units, updating lighting and plumbing fixtures and replacing the roof.

"The energy efficiency improvements that will be earned through these investments in the
